

Lesson 3

The Good Samaritan continued

Watch this modern-day adaptation of the Parable of the Good Samaritan.

Now you should create your own parable.

How to write a Parable

1. Start with the moral lesson. Think about a moral principle that has been important in your own life, or one that you're still struggling to learn fully. ...
2. Consider its consequences. What might happen as a result of behaving (or not behaving) according to your moral lesson? ...
3. Write a beginning, middle, and end.

Tips:

1. The Jews were the more powerful people - who would that be today?
2. The Samaritans were hated - who would that be today?
3. The priests were the most respected people at that time - who would that be today?
4. Where would this take place?
5. Where would the injured person be taken today?
6. How would the Samaritan travel today?
